A NOTE FROM THE DIRECTOR

As this annual programming report suggests, my inaugural year as GLLC Director has been enormously enriching. I have enjoyed getting to know our students, participating in activities with them, attending our banquets, watching the amazing talent on display at the end of year gala, travelling with them to Chicago, and much more besides. It has also been an exceptional privilege to work closely with our student assistants, and with our enormously dedicated staff, Vera Marinova, Peter Roeth, Christie Ruark, and Jason Stone. These are bittersweet acknowledgements, because I will be stepping down as Director at the end of June. Let me assure all members of the GLLC that this is no reflection on what we have built so far, or what I see the enormous promise and potential for the GLLC ahead. Quite the contrary. While I feel I have helped put the GLLC on a solid foundation, because of my other responsibilities at IU I am unable to devote the time to our community that it deserves. My only regret is that I did not spend more time in Read Hall; I wish I had more opportunities to participate in GLLC activities and to get to know our wonderful students. I thank you all for making this year so rewarding.

The good news is that the new GLLC Director, Brian Gilley, is more than up to the task. A professor in the Anthropology Department, Director of the First Nations Cultural Center, and a scholar of Native American culture and Italian culture (and food!), Brian’s academic profile rests on his personal background and experience. He will bring fresh energy to the GLLC, and is sure to promote a lively and engaging social, cultural, and academic environment for all.

As for me, I will continue to attend GLLC events when I can and pay attention to what’s going on in the community. I do plan to offer a 1-credit GLLC Spring Break travel course to civil rights museums and memorials across the U.S. South. Stay tuned for that!

Dr. Alex Lichtenstein
DIRECTOR, GLOBAL LIVING-LEARNING COMMUNITY
Each year, the Global LLC has student staff members to help keep things running smoothly throughout the year. Below are these positions and the GLLC residents who occupied them during the past year.

Resident Assistants
Our RAs deal with any and all residential matters, including conflict mediation, questions from residents, university policy enforcement, and residential programming. They are an essential part of the GLLC staff and community.

GLLC-Q 199: Introduction to Globalization and Life at the Global LLC

Course Overview

The Global Living-Learning Community is unique and gives residents many opportunities to become a global citizen. They have the opportunity to engage in learning together with friends, create initiatives, develop leadership skills, participate in service-learning projects, and gain valuable teaching experience. Through this one-credit course, new GLLCers enjoy benefits of teaching, learning, and living.

The GLLC-Q 199 class engages students in conversations about world affairs and global issues, and inspires them to think about their own role in global society. By the end of this course, students are able to:

- design a community event that contributes to promoting and enhancing the Global LLC’s mission
- raise awareness of a global issues and engage the GLLC community in dialogue or action through organizing a community event
- discuss the GLLC’s mission and activities with peers
- develop a foundation for global literacy and citizenship by discussing world affairs and global issues with classmates

For the Q199 final project, students investigate a global issue, propose, and present an event for the Global LLC. This event should identify a current global issue and raise awareness about it. One event from each course section is chosen to be organized and executed as an official GLLC event.

Peer Instructors

The peer instructors are veteran Global LLC residents who serve as facilitators for Q199, the one-credit course required of all students new to the GLLC. Besides leading “Q”, they are a great source of information about the GLLC, campus, and Bloomington. The instructors for Fall 2017 were:

- Halah Alsenan
- Megan Diekhoff
- Mercedes Farias
- Macey Halgren
- Zoie Hancock
- John Janicijevic
- Chloe McCracken
- Ashley Renken
BOOKS & BEYOND:
A SERVICE-LEARNING PROJECT

PROJECT OVERVIEW

Directed by Global Living-Learning Community associate director of outreach, Vera Marinova, the Books & Beyond project is a collaborative service-learning project that connects the Kabwende and Nyabitsinde Primary Schools (Kinigi, Rwanda), Indiana University’s Global Living-Learning Community (Bloomington, Indiana), and The Project School and Harmony School (Bloomington, Indiana).

Books & Beyond is a student-led project with two main aims: to provide high-quality reading material for school children in Rwanda—a country that is experiencing a “book famine” and to foster critical thinking skills as students from all four schools author, illustrate, publish, and distribute an annual cross-cultural anthology of children’s stories.

This outstanding, award-winning initiative engages youth in an innovative project of their own design that helps them reach across international and cultural boundaries to meet each other’s needs. The students are the main participants and beneficiaries as they work together to create excellent reading material at no cost to the recipients. As its core objective, Books & Beyond seeks to develop globally-minded students by improving critical literacy skills and developing models for cross-cultural teaching and learning. In March 2017, Books & Beyond was awarded the Best Practices in International Education Award by the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators (NASPA).

THE PARTNERS

Residents of the Indiana University Global Living-Learning Community have a passion for languages, cultures, and travel or study abroad. As participants in Books & Beyond, GLLCers and other students from across the IUB campus serve as writing partners, editors, documenters, evaluators, collaborators, PR members, and fundraisers. On average, 55 Global LLC, GV alumni, and other IU students participate in the Books & Beyond project each year. Faculty members Jeff Holdeman (College of Arts and Sciences) and Beth Samuelson (School of Education) help with programming, oversight, research, and mentoring.

The Kabwende Primary School, located in the Northern Province of Rwanda, serves 2,000 students in grades 1–6. The Rwandan government recently mandated that all classroom instruction must be in English (formerly, teachers had the option of using French or Ikinyarwanda). Without training, teachers were struggling to learn English and teach in a new language. Kabwende students in grades 4 and 5 co-author and illustrate stories for the annual Books & Beyond anthology, and through Books & Beyond, Kabwende teachers have received English language and pedagogy training. In the summer of 2015 we created a library for the school, and in the summer of 2017, in collaboration with Play360, we build a school playground, the first of its kind in the region.

In summer 2018, Books & Beyond will be celebrating 10 years since its inception. The event will be commemorated in a vibrant ceremony at Kabwende Primary School, where 7 IU units will take part by delivering eye-exams and glasses, building a second playground, updating the KPS library, providing 3D prosthetic arms and much more!

EVENTS AND COLLABORATIONS

Throughout the academic year, Books & Beyond put on several exciting events, both for its volunteers and for the public, such as:

• Visions of Rwanda Photography Exhibit
• Campus-Wide Film Showing of “Africa United”
• B&B Bikes to Uganda
• Writing Partner Workshops

Books & Beyond engages students in authoring, illustrating, publishing, and distributing collections of short stories by and for children. Each year, IU students visit Rwanda to deliver books, work with teachers, and learn about Rwandan history and culture. During the summer of 2017, Books & Beyond brought a group of eight IU students to the Kabwende Primary School to conduct the Kabwende Holiday Camp, which aims to increase the English literacy skills of Rwandan primary school students. Indiana University student volunteers facilitated interactive lessons focused on reading, writing, and English conversation skills for approximately 300 Rwandan students.

Participants in the trip facilitated two weeks of camp at the Kabwende Primary School in Rwanda. In order to participate, they enrolled in EDUC-L295, a one-credit spring course to prepare them for the trip, and EDUC-L296, a two-credit summer course that involves the trip to Rwanda. These two credits were earned in Rwanda through lesson planning, teaching English, leading reflection exercises, and blogging about their journey.

After a week of adjustment and travel in Rwanda, the team settled into their group house in Musanze and completed a one-week training session with the Rwandan teachers. They distributed copies of Books & Beyond’s story anthology, The World is Our Home, to the approximately 2,000 students of Kabwende Primary School, after which they held the two-week Kabwende Holiday Camp. The camp was divided into four sections: Reading, Writing, Kinesthetic Learning, and Practical English. Each of the IU student teachers got to experience all aspects of teaching English through helping the Rwandan students write stories, work on English conversation, and play games.

When not working with the children at the camp, students traveled in Rwanda and engaged in the following activities: visiting a genocide memorial, hiking in national parks, observing local wildlife, visiting artist cooperatives, visiting other schools, learning about the life of local Rwandan kids, engaging in service-learning projects, and meeting with local and international community organizations. Those that went on the trip described it as a life-changing experience, both for them and for the Rwandan students.

GLOBAL LLC CHICAGO TRIP 2018

This year, the GLLC continued its tradition of the annual Chicago Trip. This trip is a three-day event that exposes students to the sides of Chicago that they almost certainly have never seen before. We travel to various ethnic neighborhoods in the city, giving students time to go into grocery stores, book shops, and bakeries to fully experience what makes each neighborhood unique, to talk to shop owners and community members, and to begin to understand what daily life is like for a particular culture. Each year is different, as the GLLCers help create the itinerary based on their interests and own backgrounds. We also visit cultural centers and museums, both large and small, as well as explore the American side of one of the greatest cities in the U.S. While we can't begin to give you the full experience our students had, below is a list of some of the things they got to see and do in Chicago this year.

Day One Highlights:
- Jane Addams Hull-House Museum
- Lunch at Phoenix Restaurant
- Free Time in Chinatown
- Attended Blind Date, a Play at the Goodman Theater

Day Two:
- National Museum of Puerto Rican Arts and Culture
- Free time in downtown Chicago
- Dinner at Nando’s peri-peri
- Visited the Gene Siskel Film Center for the Movie Have a Nice Day
- Second City Comedy Club — To wrap up the evening, the group went to the Second City Comedy Club to enjoy an upbeat show of social and political humor. Some chose to stay for the improv set afterward.

Day Three:
- The National Museum of Mexican Art — This beautiful museum gave students the chance to examine and appreciate Mexican art both past and present.
- Free time in Pilsen:
  - Often called the “Mexico of the Midwest”, Pilsen was the last stop on the trip. Student had lunch in their groups and explored the bright and vibrant community.
